YORK

Explaining and containing . .

United in a spirit of retrospection, we, the seniors of this graduating class, wish the pages of our 1959 Rosa Mystica to reflect a spirit of farewell. Our theme is farewell because this year marks the end of more than a quarter of a century of Catholic education in our King Street building. We will forever cherish the memories gained from our happy and eventful years here. In saying goodbye to our old building, we are not tossing aside the traditions so carefully cultivated through those years. Our new building exemplifies all that is good in modern architecture, and so, it is our final hope that our underclassmen exemplify their good Catholic education there.

In the pages of this yearbook we show our students working and playing together, portraying a fine Catholic spirit, which displays to all our just pride of accomplishment.

In Memoriam

This past year the world, and the Catholic Church in particular, suffered a great loss with the death of his holiness, Pope Pius XII. He was a humble, saintly man, and all the nations of the world mourned his death, for his was a life dedicated to the promotion of world wide peace. The Church felt a keen loss because for almost twenty-five years Pius XII had been a wise and encompassing spiritual leader. Many years of his fruitful reign had been tense and troubled ones. Through his sense of justice and charity, he unselfishly gave of himself and his available resources to the refugees of two world wars.

Although many prominent people sorrowed at his death, it was felt most keenly by the young people of the world; teenagers had known no other Pope. Pius XII placed great confidence in us as "the hope of the world and Holy Mother Church." He wisely advised us to carry on the work of our predecessors and to better it. We must not betray his confidence. His holiness, Pope Pius XII, was indeed a wise pope, and his memory will live on forever—a memory attested to by the monuments of his faith and good will.

Gloriously Reigning

In November of this year, with all the pomp and ceremony of the Church, Angelo Giuseppe Roncalli was elevated to the Papacy. He took the name of John XXIII because of his deep devotion to Saint John the Baptist. Pope John had a difficult place to fill for his predecessor had been a well-known and well-loved pontiff, but within a few days he showed the world that he would be a Pastoral Pope—a Pope of Friendliness. His kind face displayed an innate peace of soul, a peace he would hope to transmit to all the peoples of the world. His sympathy and compassion became evident to all for he was the first Pope in hundreds of years to visit the prisons and hospitals of Rome. In this short time he has endeared himself to all, from papal hierarchy to peasantry. We may indeed call him the POPE OF THE PEOPLE.

We revere the Christlike leadership of

His Excellency
The Most Reverend Bishop
George L. Leech, D.D., J.C.D.
Bishop of Harrisburg

. . devoted men

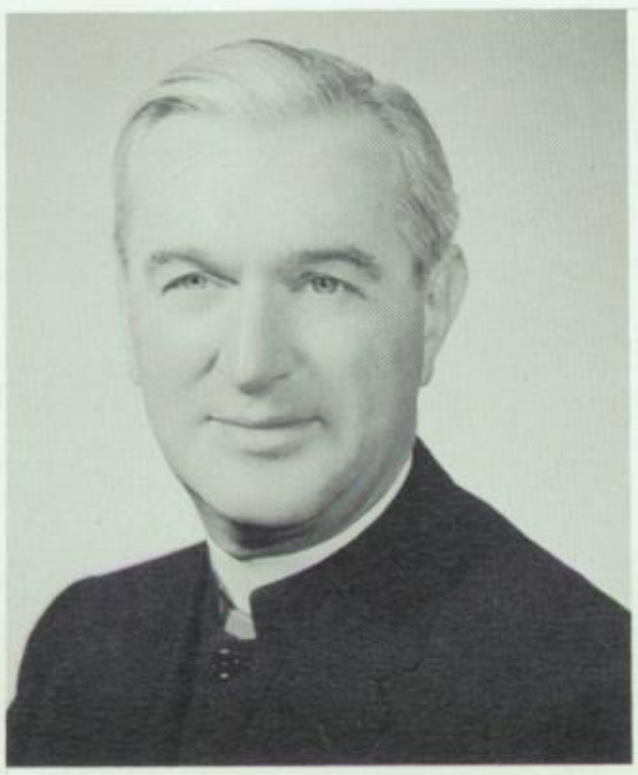
We, who are blessed with the persevering and benevolent leadership of our MOST REVEREND BISHOP GEORGE L. LEECH, take this opportunity to express our gratitude for his many favors toward us.

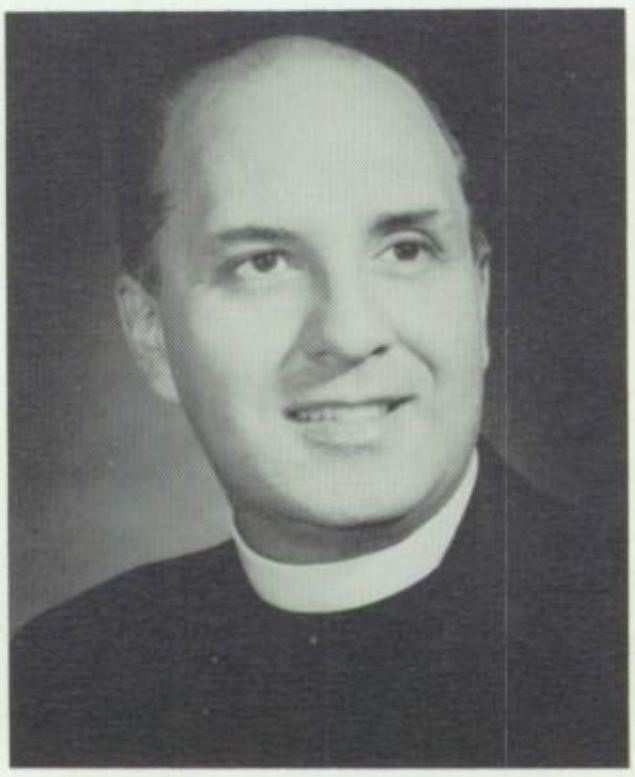
Bishop Leech leaves no stone unturned in our spiritual, intellectual and physical development. He rejoices with us in all our accomplishments, whether religious, scholastic or athletic. His annual visit testifies his eagerness to guide us along the paths of virtuous, Christian living.

His motto, "Not to us, O Lord, not to us; but to Thy name give glory," cannot help but infuse in our youthful minds, the necessity of modeling our lives after the Sublime Model, Christ.

As Auxiliary Bishop of Harrisburg. BISHOP SCHOTT zealously watches over the growth and development of the youth of this diocese. Bishop Schott will always be remembered as a Friend of Youth.



Zealously striving to restore all things to Christ, our School Superintendent, MONSIGNOR ROBERT MAHER, vigorously toils for Catholic Youth.



As Assistant Superintendent of Schools, REVEREND WALTER H. SHAULL inspires us to imitate his Christ-like life of charity and goodness.

Looking Back . . .

We think of Father Bierster as Priest, Principal, and Teacher. Esteem and respect are synonymous with those who hold any one of these titles. In each is exemplified selfless service to mankind . . . a service conceived in love, and nourished by garnering God-fearing souls. We, the students of York Catholic, have among us a dedicated man and priest in whom these qualities are epitomized. Since his first appearance at York Catholic five years ago, Father Bierster has conscientiously assumed the many responsibilities of his triple position. His spirit of wholesome enthusiasm predominates in our school.

Yet, a deep religious piety envelops Father Bierster, the Priest, whose flock comprises the entire student body. The spiritual well-being of every student is to him a primary concern. The numerous difficulties which arise in the lives of teenagers during the four vital years of secondary education, he has taken as his own. There is no problem too insignificant, nor question too trivial, to which Father would not give his all in guding York Catholic's youth to its ultimate goal.

As principal, Father has accepted the responsibility of an entire administration. The many facets of the office are varied and demanding. With dignified authority, Father has led both faculty and students, in the light of higher Catholic education, to a position of honor and respect in our community and diocese.

REVEREND
BIERSTER
Principal

Father has more than fulfilled the vocation of teacher. Conducting his religion courses, he has been an incentive to countless seniors. Besides instilling in them a firm foundation in Catholic doctrine, he has prepared them to meet and conquer obstacles which may one day cross their paths. Please God, because of his influence, may they accept their trials, and emerge staunch in their Catholic beliefs.

Thus, we praise and honor the man whose devotedness to youth has become a vital part of York Catholic. Regardless of time or place, it is our fondest hope that our high school memories will be radiant with the presence of Father Bierster—our Friend.

Three of our esteemed faculty members, Father Wiegand, Father Barrett and Father Cain, discuss their class schedules of the day.

While considering the lasts of our days on King Street, we can not fail to appreciate these most progressive firsts. In addition to fulfilling their parish duties, Father Barrett, Father Fennessey and Father Wiegand now have unselfishly given their precious time to instruct our underclassmen in Catholic Doctrine.

Father Gervase Cain, T.O.R., an understanding teacher, spiritual advisor and friend, has complemented our own diocesan priest-teachers. It is through their religion classes and Christ-like example that we recognize their aims to make of each of us sound Catholic citizens.

to those who come

A full round of "Thanks" to our thoroughly qualified teachers! Since the opening of York Catholic at "459," the four religious communities—Sisters of St. Francis, Sisters of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, Daughters of Mercy, and Sisters of St. Joseph—have joined their untiring efforts to give us true, solid principles of Catholic education. As late as 1956 the Sisters of Charity augmented their numbers. To each of you present, as well as to all those Sisters who have labored so arduously, and who have long since left York, we students, and especially we, the last graduates of King Street, express our sincere appreciation. We go from here not only academically equipped, but spiritually prepared because of your lives of dedication and good example.

Three members of the lay music faculty pool their ideas on the interpretation of a phrase in the finale of the Christmas Pageant. Mr. Ralph Woolley, choir and chorus director, Mr. Roman Shuman, orchestra director, and Mr. Loucks, woodwind instructor, seem to be pleased with the purposed result.

The newly elected Student Council members listen intently to President Patrick Clark's Acceptance Speech. Father Walter Schaull, as guest speaker at the Assembly for Installation of Officers, impressed the student body with his inspiring address stating that "We must show forth good, pious, and devout living to York's citizenry; not Catholicity bundled inside, but rather as shining armor showing why we are different."

Promoting Y. C. H. S. . . . Student Council

According to the tradition of York Catholic High School, the Student Council was organized for the furtherance of co-operation between students and faculty members to the end that the interests of our school and the student body may advance. Guiding other class officers, this Council labored long and hard on heavy traffic of lunch hours, putting the Fighting 69th on a voluntary basis, laying plans for a future Home-Coming Dance, the strict supervision of locker areas, generally maintaining school spirit, and the bringing of student opinion to the attention of the Administration of York Catholic. The success in these matters was commensurate with the amount of honest, hard work expended by the Council's new-come and gracious moderator, Sister Rita Edward, I.H.M.

We congratulate you, Sister and Councilmen, for the effective and efficient manner of organization throughout this, our last year in King Street York Catholic.

Patrick Clark receives congratulations from Father Walter Schaull, Assistant Superintendent of Schools. Father Bierster, our Principal, looks with approval on Y.C.'s vote of confidence to Pat, our school president.

NANCY MILLER, Secretary of Section 2-A

VINCENT KREPPS, President of Section 2-A

Vice - President MICHAEL GANGLOFF and Treasurer MARY SUE STRINE have consistently endeavored to perform their official duties generously.

Looking Back . . .

The American Catholic concept of education endeavors to enrich the life of every student. Through our attendance at classes in York Catholic High School, each of us is able to look back and without effort recall the invaluable friendships we have gained, and the generosity and integrity of the teachers we have had. Without doubt these add a great amount of enrichment to our lives.

In our curriculum, each subject, in its own particular way, helps to provide us with the necessities for securing our goal in life. If we are to attain this goal, there are certain standards we must follow. We must approach our studies with sincere effort and interest. Only by possessing this attitude of mind may we reap the benefits from our classes. One great reward of achieving these standards is the making of better grades. Bear in mind that report-card day reveals the true story of our efforts.

However, in addition to the serious nature of our classes, there should also be a feeling of cheerfulness in them. The responsibility of providing this pleasantness rests with every student. Certainly, when we gaze retrospectively over our school days, the classes which stand out most are those in which a spirit of good will predominated.

Let us strive to keep high the rating of Y.C. by developing a serious attitude about our studies, bearing in mind that our future success depends greatly on our earliest endeavors.

Studies

Religion

Each Friday, the Junior and Senior boys in turn, have the privilege of serving Holy Mass. An atmosphere of reverence and respect prevails when our auditorium becomes momentarily our chapel. Here Ernest McDowell, Thomas Echenrode, Albert Crone, and Vincent Krepps prepare the altar for Mass.

Patrick Clark's reading of the Advent antiphons opens the first of the four-week Advent Wreath Ceremony. Michael Gangloff lights the ornate, symbolical candle. Father Fierster, David Klunk, Thomas Graham, Carolee Zagurski, Julia Brezler, Beverly Peters, Sheila Einsig, Marcia Wagner, Mary Sue Strine, Mary Guyer, and Linda Knouse reveal their serious purpose in preparing for the coming of Christ.

Bishop Leech leisurely pauses to discuss dedication of new York Catholic with our principal pro tem, Father Gervase Cain.

Without religion, we as human beings, or York Catholic as an educational institution, would have no purpose. Active knowledge of God and His Church stands as a bulwark against the aggressive "isms" of the world which willfully destroy democracy, "the Flower of Christianity." We must cherish our religion; protect it greedily, for the Truths of God alone remain unchanged by the tides of time. The keystone for Christian movement, religious instruction, will reign as the prime necessity in the training of young Americans, our future generation.

infuses the inspiration behind

Father Cain explains the fundamentals of Ecclesiology to the Senior Class. Theme: the teaching, ruling, and sanctifying offices of the Church are the concern of Patrick Clark, Ronald Soltes, Terrence McClain, Theodore Beltz, Luke St. Onge, and Albert Crone.

Joan Wagman is illustrating the symbols of the four divisions of Religion III to the girls of the Junior Class. Kathleen Whalen, Barbara Akers, Nancy Brownsweiger, Barbara Beck, Ann Grove, and Carol Mikush are engrossed in thought.

our actions

Here Father Bierschmidt is presenting our school with a Mission Banner which signifies Y. C.'s generous contributions. Father Cain represented Father Bierster at our Mission Assembly. The Mission Representatives from Sections 1-A to 4-D feel justified in being proud of their efforts.

Knowledge of English and . . .

Books go hand in hand

Sister Christine overlooks her class of Freshman English as Barbara Shearer, Cosimo Shortino, Elizabeth Wotherspoon and Innocenzio Gregnano enthusiastically trace the growth of the English language.

Junior library aides cheerfully display a few of the more popular books among York Catholic students.

Languages are the keys to understanding

Bingo—Roman Style??? Loretta Freed, Michael Hopkinson, Michael Bevenour, Thomas Laffey, Michael Albaugh, Brenda Shrader, Mary Lou McGuigan of the Junior Latin class are attempting it for the first time. As Thomas Laffey rattles off English words, these Latin "scholars" quickly translate the words to the corresponding Latin forms on their cards.

Latin

French

"Quelle heure est-il?" asks Joan Wagman. Our Junior French students, Brenda Shrader, Catherine Smith, Wanda Keller, Nan Zurcher, Yvonne MacDonald, and Kathleen Whalen, take delight in being able to clock themselves "en francais."

Bernard Topper is curious about the French word for spoon. Learning French vocabulary can be fun as well as interesting and educational. Lewraine Buckingham, Earl Jennings, Nicholas Listorti, and Carole Martin quickly agree.

Thomas Graham traces the Seine River as Patrick Clark informs the class of its boundaries. "Discussing the geographical aspects of France can be fascinating!" so Judith Orendorf, Vincent Krepps, Mary Sue Strine, Diane Jennings, and James Conner readily decide.

History students study world events . .

All eyes turn alertly toward sophomore, Michael Ronan as he confidently explains to the World History class the terms of the treaty of Westphalia.

Robert Bastress unbiasedly presides over the court session as Thomas Felty pleads the case of a fearful Joseph Concino to the attentive jury composed of Harry O'Brien, Melvina Slovan, Barbara Conner, and Rita Culbertson.

Discussing the United Nations and its many beneficial functions, senior girls Madeline Landis, Dena Smith, Genevieve Corbin, Sheila Einsig, Judith Crittenden, Lucy McClain and Diane Jennings acquire a more active knowledge of the world's hope for peace.

Sister Caritas, Moderator of the Junior Red Cross, displays the historical values of White Rose City Exchange Book prepared by our art students, while J. R. C. representatives, Jeanne Buckingham, Richard Nichol and Carol Pavlick look on. This book will go on exhibit and then be sent to Italy.

Preparing for a business life ahead . . .

The great trend toward automation makes it necessary for all office workers to know the "why's" and "how's" of office machinery. These Office Practice students are becoming familiar with the procedure followed in producing copies from the mimeograph, while others practice at the adding machine.

Members of the Commercial Club, P. Gebhart, F. Heindel, M. Zarnowski, J. Kupres, A. Weikel, E. List, H. Flinchbaugh, J. Kerchner, M. Freed, C. Zagurski, and B. A. McLaughlin, demonstrate to other club members their plans for the Christmas program. Seemingly fun, it has its place as a part of the training in business education.

Several members of the Junior bookkeeping class are engrossed in a maze of balance sheets, journals and ledgers. Among them are Mary Kaiser, Cecilia Heines, Madeline Gangloff, Marcia Brior, Gloria Kreeger, Elaine Small, and Patricia Peffley.

The real worth of a shorthand student is in her ability to produce a mailable transcript. Students, J. Weikel, R. Butera, E. Hemler, V. Alfano, G. Moon, J. Trimble, T. Gutt, E. Lowe, L. Looks, S. Hagarman, R. Unger, M. J. Helfrich, and C. Costellano, endeavor to do just that in their daily Secretarial Practice.

Diligently rolling, decorating, and baking cookies, Junior home economics students Margaret Witmer, Rose Schmidt, Barbara Surtasky, Mabel Sanders, Dolores Roth, and Jacqueline Richards demonstrate their domestic skills.

Homemakers of tomorrow

Sewing—a "must" in the life of every homemaker—is offered to our Junior girls. Catherine Myron and Cecilia Kadilack, examining a skirt pattern, give their ardent approval, and treasure optimistic thoughts of the finished "dream".

The 1959 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow Award won by Cynthia Keen. Her score on homemaking knowledge and attitudes scored highest of Y. C.'s Senior girls. Trips to Washington, D. C., and colonial Williamsburg, and a General Mills $1,500 scholarship await the fortunate state winners.

Senior Mechanical Drawing students display objects which they drafted and assembled. Shown here by Stanley Deller, William Palmer, Henry Smyser, David Hall, Ronald Soltes, Preston Shellenberger, Thomas Perkinson, Richard Fallert, Francis Callahan, Raymond Noll, Clarence Kristig, and, seated, Theodore Beltz, Edward Ruth, and John Knadig are a square converted to a round stack flange, a chimney cap, a transition piece, elbow, and other pieces.

Larry Watson and Patricia Pacatte combine their talent in explaining a difficult problem to their Senior Math Class. Seemingly they have Sister Caritas' approval, too.

Mathematics develops logical minds

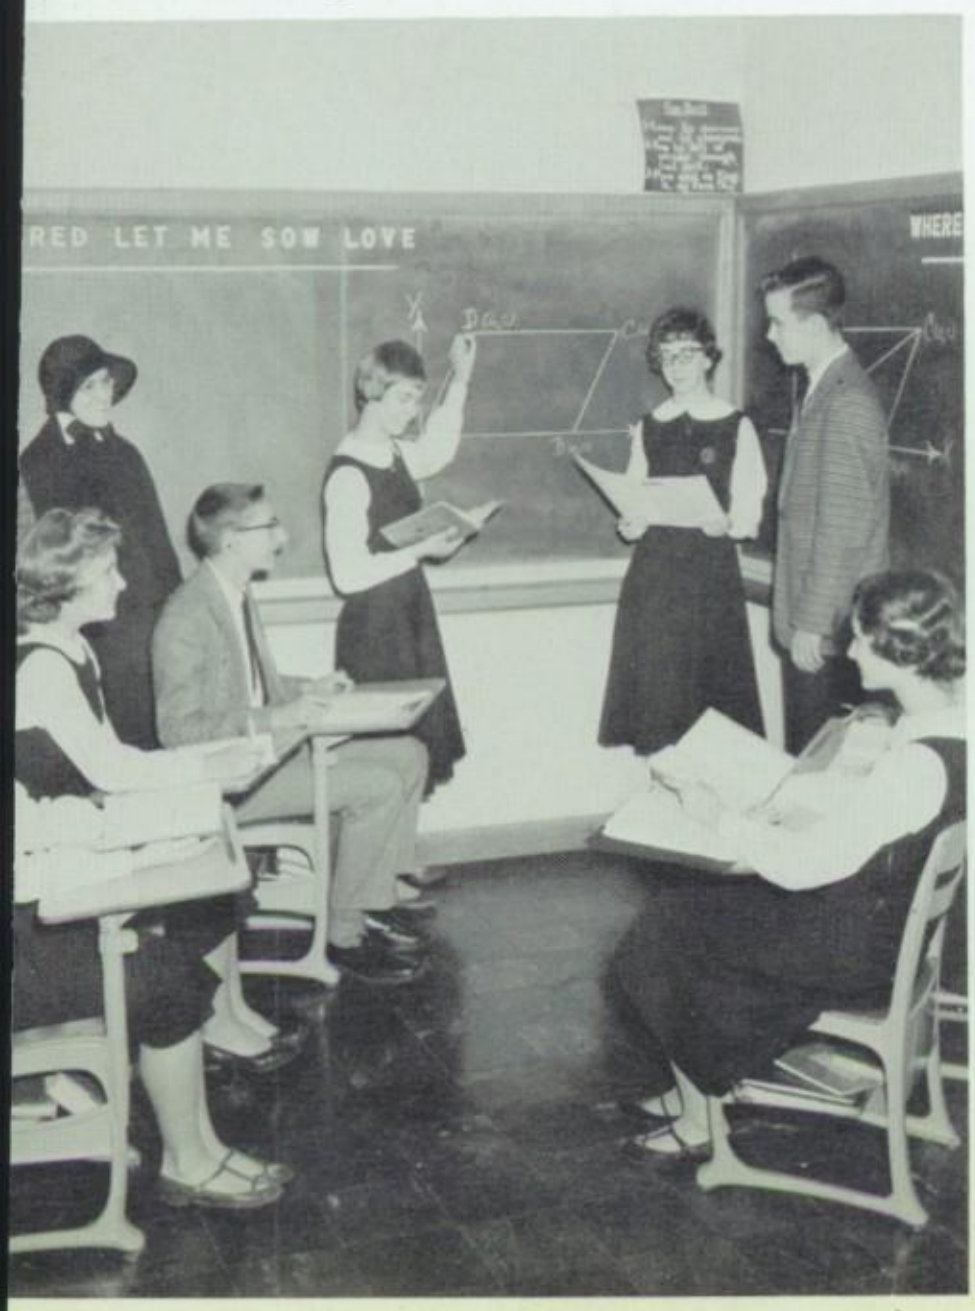
"Mathematics — The Door to Many Opportunities" is being pointed out by Morgan Forry, Judy Sparler, Susan Cowman, and Thomas Stover to the Algebra II class.

Mary Louise Frick demonstrates coordinate geometry in the study of quadrilaterals according to the new approach. Jean Buchingham and James Hoffman follow the explanations with diagrams.



Solving problems is an essential part of living—and Algebra I. Richard Hagarman questions the solution of John Richards as Sister Grace Matthew, Carla Palmer, Patricia Daniels, Georgianna Frick, and Robert Demer and the class listen to the explanation.

Exploring the field

On October 27, 1958, when Kathleen Shoop, 4-D, was called to Y. C. stage, a "glass-like marigold was presented to her. Its glossy brittleness was the effect of this liquid air demonstration by Mr. John Sloan of South Carolina.

Under the meticulous guidance of Sister Caritas, General Science students demonstrate how they obtain evidence by means of experiments. Here Thomas Felty, Catherine Frantz and Dominica LoBianco are timing the swing of a pendulum.

Physical fitness is important in health

Doctor H. M. Read, of York County T.B. Society, ably provides for the physical fitness of our students. Terrence Urey, Margot Curran and Judy LoBianco "brave" the needle.

The guardians of health for Y.C.H.S. are seen in their familiar surrounding of the school infirmary. The combined time and efforts of Dr. Kennth O'Toole, Dr. Frank Weaver, Dr. August A. Gabriele, and the school nurse, Mrs. Richard Mummert are generously given for the health and welfare of the students.

Senior football players, Albert Crone, James Conner, Preston Shellenberger, Michael Schneider, Peter Klein, Gary Markle and Thomas Eckenrode, insure their health by making use of Chest X-Ray service.

Looking Back . . .

Our class of 1959 salutes you, Juniors, Sophomores, Freshmen. The reward of being a senior is tripled by the support and encouragement you give us. Working harmoniously to achieve greater glory for York Catholic, there stand among you noteworthy students, fiery athletes, eloquent speakers, accomplished musicians and captivating artists. The fusing of these skills form that cherished class ingredient—spirit. Nothing unites a school like the collective sharing of the joys and trials of scholastic life.

Observing your forward climb to the place of honor in York Catholic, we Seniors see a reflection of our own days as underclassmen, and cherish them as experiences happening but once in a lifetime. To us, they project vivid memories—to you, they reveal bright conquests. Aim high and achieve success, which will inscribe your names and your school's name in the mind of our community. Since accomplishments at York Catholic depend wholly on the individual, each student must make his own rewarding present, and in so doing prepares his own future. As underclassmen you are given this opportunity. Accept the challenge!

The Seniors sincerely express their gratitude for your confidence and help during our final year at York Catholic. You possess the bright spirit and ability to conquer any goal. It is our hope that you will use these resources to great advantage; that we may look back with pride on the Seniors of tomorrow, the Underclassmen of today.

Looking Back . . .

Every high school student takes particular pride in the sports activities of his respective school. Y.C.H.S. is no exception, for we know that whether our boys are on the gridiron, the basketball court, or on the green they are giving their best all the time. Although these sports are important in themselves, they hold greatest importance in the fact that they instill in each and every individual student a fighting spirit of competition, and an air of good sportsmanship. Besides football, basketball, and golf, we are justly proud of our intramural teams which benefit all sports-minded boys.

The football team, hampered by the fact that the practice field is six blocks from the dressing room, bucked the ninety degree August weather for two weeks to get in shape. Get in shape they did, for statistics show only one injury all season and this was suffered in an overenthused practice session! This was important, for when twenty-seven boys batter their way through the rigorous schedule of Y.C. with a five and two record, one can feel justly proud.

With the cold weather comes basketball, and with basketball comes excitement. The West King St. floor, which is the site of many an activity at Y.C., played its last role as a court for the Fighting Irish cagers of Y.C. Lack of height, only three lettermen, and as the Bishop McDevitt Coach put it, "plenty of blood and guts", the West King Streeters closed with a praiseworthy sixteen and six record.

Best of luck to our golfers in 1959 and to every sports activity of the school! May this fighting spirit, exceeded only by good sportsmanship, accompany every athletic engagement at York Catholic High School.

Activities

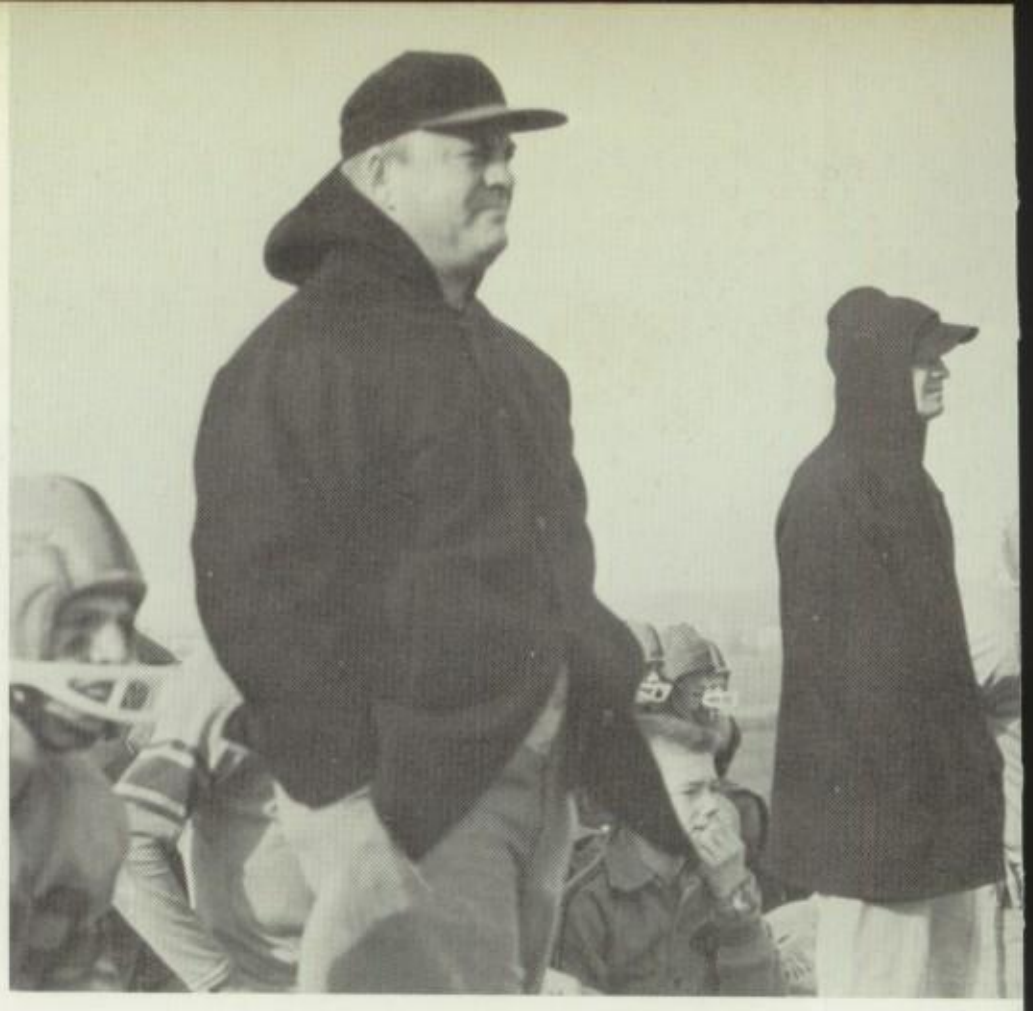
"Go Team Go," "Victory, victory is our cry," and away we go, off to another exciting, thrilling, and suspense-filled year of Y.C.H.S. football. The Irish started out on the right foot by soundly whipping Middletown, 19 to 6. Albert Crone scored twice inside the 5, while Pat Clark swept the end for a 29-yard touchdown sprint. The Irish were not done yet, for they tore into Susquehannock and emerged a 19 to 8 victor, with Pat Clark scoring twice and throwing to Pret Shellenberger for another. On a dismal day in Harrisburg the Irish were slashed to the first of two defeats at the hands of Bishop McDevitt. The score was 33 to 20, the Irish playing their hearts out in vain. Delone, by a score of 19 to 0, was the next "demon" to whip the Irish, who were plagued with faulty ball handling all afternoon.



Coach Sinkovitz, Coach Smith, and the side lines reflect the tenseness of competition by their faces unstaged expression.

The second half of the season saw the Irish go undefeated in three straight games. To open this streak, the Irish encountered the bulldog forces of West York making puppies out of them with a sound 27-6 victory. Pat Clark scored three TD's on short plunges, and Conner grabbed a Clark aerial for the final TD. After a disappointing cancellation with Reading Central Catholic, the Irish met head on with Lancaster Catholic and glided to a 12-0 victory. Pat Clark, behind his forward wall, did the honors by scoring both TD's. In their final game with Dallastown, the Irish really plowed the field—plowing through for three TD's. Al Crone did not score, but was the spark behind the offensive punch of the Irish. Clark, Conner, and Shayer did the honors to wind up the 1958 year.

Clark tears into open for sizeable gain against McDevitt. Lending assistance are Mike Schneider and Tom Eckenrode.

Varsity Basketball

The York Catholic Cagers started the pre-league play by soundly whipping two arch-rivals, Dallastown and West York. Then the Irish ran into a dead streak by losing to South Pen foes Middletown and Carlisle. The West King Streeters recovered from these blows to take a thriller from Reading and then pulverized West York. The Fighting Five took a week to prepare for the Spring Grove Tourney. However, they looked ragged by sneaking by Spring Grove, 54 to 52. The fruits of practice showed up as the Irish routed West York for the third time of the season. After walking off with laurels at Spring Grove, the York Catholic Five beat an improved Dallastown quintet, and dropped a thriller to a powerful Alumni five by a margin of one point—61-60.

Hoffman fires his deadly one-hand push against Reading as Johnny Watson (#13) anticipates his next move.

Earl Jennings drives inside Reading's defense before the awed eyes of enemy defenders.

Captain Pat Clark uses Delone defender as a stepping stone to two more points. J. Watson rushes goalward for possible rebound.

Dick Nichols went up for a rebound that came via two points. Jennings and Hoffman wait impatiently.

LEAGUE ACTION

The Irish were now ready to enter Catholic Central Penn League action with a reputable 7 and 3 record. With an outstanding team effort they won four straight, beating Lancaster, Shamokin, Lebanon, and Delone, respectively. The talented McDevitt five finally ended the Big Green's glory trail with a sound 61-46 trouncing. During the lay-off the Irish beat a new foe, York Suburban, 71-46, and a long-time rival, Reading Central Catholic, 47-45.

The Second Half found the Irish starting off on the right foot by beating Lancaster and then losing to a hot and cold Shamokin team. The high hopes of championship were dimmed, but the Irish didn't think so, as they tore Lebanon and Delone apart. Then McDevitt shut the door in our face with a 71-49 beating.

"It matters not if you win or lose, but how you played the game." This is the saying Coach Sinkovitz drilled into his boys. The result was a 16-6 record for the season. The loyal sons of Y.C. can hang up their Kelly Green uniforms with a feeling of contentment.

John Watson, improved Sophomore, lays up a twin pointer, despite a Lebanon foe. Tom Laffey moves in for a rebound.

Y. C. H. S. Band gives us pep and rhythm

Cold hands, wet feet, tasseled hair never hamper the untiring efforts of the Varsity Cheerleaders as they endeavor to keep alive the enthusiasm of our spirited students. Patricia Mann, Nancy Miller, Scheila Kraft, Barbara Tuleya, Barbara Akers, Elizabeth Mengel, Julia Brezler, and Karen McGinty here lead us with the cheer B-E-A-T.

York Catholic's Band is the high note and spirited leader at all games, pep rallies, and scholastic activities. Shown here, they jubilantly march at the head of the lively gubernatorial parade, and with energetic rhythm they once again add increasing distinction to our school.

VITALE BASTELLANO

"Vic" holds the highly coveted first chair of the trumpet section in the band and orchestra. In the band, he displays his authority as assistant student conductor. Because of his outstanding playing, he is often a featured soloist in these music organizations. Vic has also added a certain zest to the dance band by his "smooth" manipulation of the trumpet.

After taking care of the business and social details of Prom night, the members of the Prom Committee can relax for a pretty pose in the York Country Club. Seated: Judith Lanius, Sara Topper, Kathleen Whalen, Lewraine Buckingham, Loretta Freed, Karen McGinty, Constance Mingora, and Susan Klunk. Committee-men are Michael Hophinson, James Lytle, Michael Bevenour, James Scarborough, Bernard Topper, Richard Nichol, Earl Jennings, and David Atkinson.

Junior Prom—

the climax of our joys

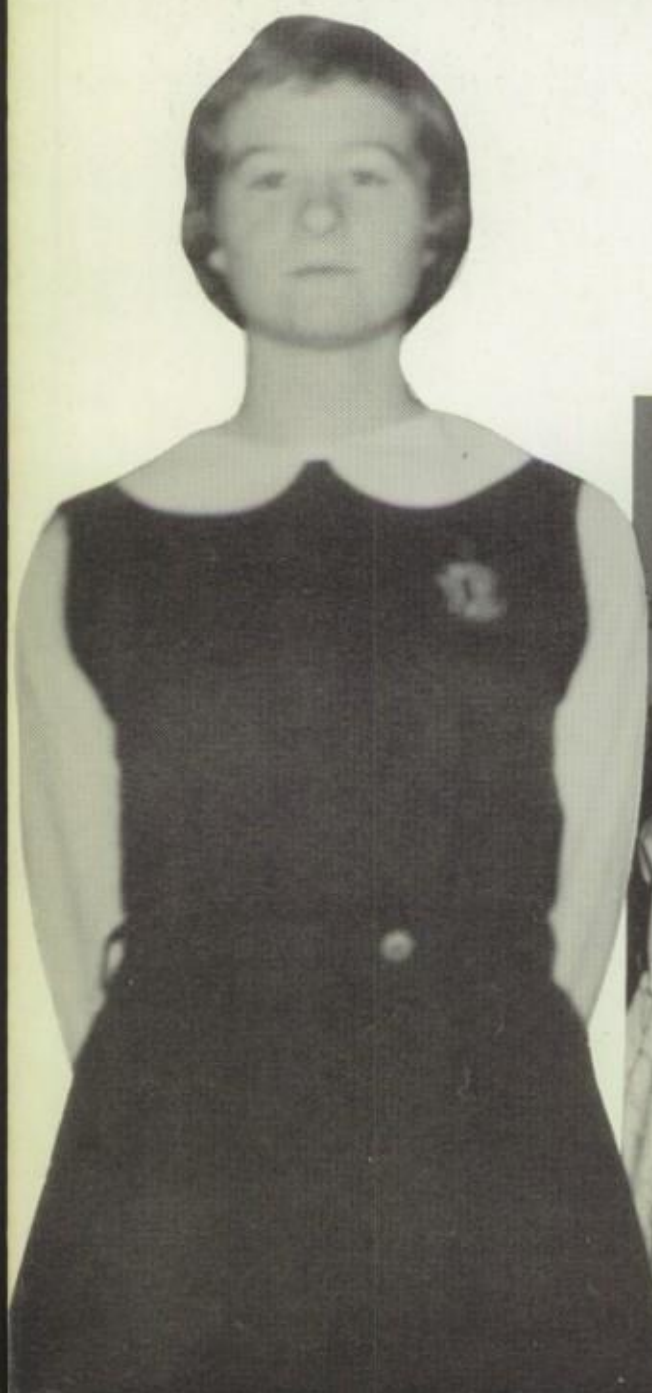
Chaperons Dr. and Mrs. Frank Weaver, Mrs. and Mrs. John Krutulis, and Dr. Kenneth O'Toole extend formal greetings to Thomas Schwartzer and Joan Schneider. Our beloved and gracious chaperons lent a very special warmth to our prom, a warmth which returns with each glowing remembrance of that wonderful evening.

Entering into the gay spirit of the evening, our vice-president, Michael Gangloff, and his date, Constance Saum, greet Margaret Freed and president Patrick Clark.

Nancy Miller laughs happily as Mr. John Sinkovitz crowns her Queen of the Prom. Gary Markle, her escort, is looking on with visible approval. The "royal couple" is chosen by the chaperons.

The annual Junior Prom, held this year at the beautiful York Country Club, was the highlight of the school year's social functions. Sister Patricia Mary's careful supervision helped to make it such a success. Our planning and dreaming became reality through the co-operative efforts of the Juniors in all their previous activities. The numbers selected by the Prom Committee were beautifully rendered in the nostalgic music of Bill Collins' orchestra. From the first strains of "April Love"—the theme song of the Prom—to the refrain of "I'll See You in My Dreams," the Prom will linger long as a gala event in our memories.

What is so rare as a circus in school? Clowns, ringmaster, orphans, spectators—all. This is the "combine" that was the 1959 YC Magazine Drive. Each section resolved to achieve its goal, and we topped it! This drive provides financial assistance for general school expenses.



Marcia Wagner, our fabulous high salesman of the Magazine Drive, takes a breather. For four consecutive years, she has displayed a great school spirit.

Suzanne Reese's dummy, Jerry, gets acquainted with the drive's mascot, Mortimer, introduced by Michael Gangloff, who did an ostentatious job as ringmaster.

Looking Back . . .

Looking back over this year, we recall with special pleasure our outstanding achievements. These achievements cover a wide variety of fields — musical, dramatic, oratorical, and literary. The students who have helped to achieve these honors for their school can feel justly proud in a job well done. Our music department has received accolades from all sides for its meritorious accomplishments. Their perseverance in the face of many practical difficulties has made their attainment of top honors a true cause for rejoicing. Drama, to Y.C., is personified by the senior plays. A keen spirit of competition and long rehearsals produce a show that we feel is second to none. Public speaking is another field in which York Catholic has reaped a fruitful harvest of honors. Our reputation in this field is known far beyond our own area and the honors which we have received are a culmination of many hours of hard work. The literary field has not been neglected. Our school publications, the SPECTATOR and the ROSA MYSTICA, are the objects of much interest. The hard working members of both staffs devote much of their time to preparing the publications for the press. The fruits of their labor are apparent in the awards, which both have won, year after year. Many of the extracurricular activities are concentrated in these fields. The necessary guidance, which goes into making these achievements a reality, is contributed by our tireless faculty. To them and to our lay-instructors, we owe a debt of gratitude for helping us to publicize, through positive action, our good, Catholic education.

Achievements

Our two able organists, Jane Lonsdorf and Mary Ann Frank, typify the joy of the Christmas season. These talented musicians offer their services for all activities, but they particularly lend atmosphere to our Christmas pageant.

Glory to God in the Highest

The spirit of Christmases past seems to prevail as we gather in our King Street auditorium for the last presentation of the traditional Christmas pageant. The beauty of St. Luke's gospel, enhanced by the Nativity scene with a backdrop of beautiful hymns offered by the music department, exemplifies the real spirit of the coming holidays.

In this season of tinsel and gaiety, Y.C.H.S. pauses a moment to meditate on the true meaning of Christ's birth. Mary Snyder reverently portrays the Blessed Mother while James Hoffman represents St. Joseph. Adoring angels are Margo Curran, Roseann Murphy, Cecilia Lowe, Jean Bankowski, and Donna Williams.

The A Cappella Choir added to the blithe spirit prevailing among the faculty and student body during our traditional Christmas assembly, with their lively interpretation of the seasonal favorites.

The members of the marching unit of our band danced their way into the hearts of Y. C.'s students with their gala presentation of "Winter Wonderland."

Presenting.. LIFE OF THE PARTY

In the Maxwell household festivity prevails as Betty Lou (Elaine List) applies the polishing touches to her party. A brother, Wilbur (Thomas Strausbaugh), confuses matters by pouring medicine into the punch. As the unsuspecting guests (Terence McClain, Theodore Beltz, Henry Smyser, Gloria Moon, Marcia Ringlein, Joan Kupres) pause for refreshments they become drowsy and fall asleep in the living room. As older sister, Connie (Sarah Snyder), and Mrs. Maxwell (Carolee Zagurski), try in vain to arouse the sleeping teenagers, Mr. Maxwell (Vincent Krepps) enters to investigate and he is beseiged by requests to punish Wilbur. Trying to save himself, the boy devises a successful plan for arousing the sleepers. Thus the guests return to the spirit of the party, but Wilbur plunges on the sofa, fast asleep.

As the played out party goers enjoy a deep sleep in the family living room, Betty Lou and Connie anxiously urge a somewhat reluctant father into whipping their mischievous brother, who is conveniently draped over a stool. However, Mrs. Maxwell, a confused mother, tries to prevent the use of the Book of Knowledge on her tantalizing son.

A meeting of the Maxwell family is called to discuss the dreadful dilemma of the sleeping guests, who drank too much punch.

A genius with puzzling problems, Wilbur, the instigator of the trouble saves the family pride by devising a unique method for awakening the guests.

HOUSE OF GREED

With cold hostility, Letitia accepts Cedric and Gwenda's engagement (center-R.) as Carlotta, Mamie, Jerry, and Brooks apprehensively await an impending outburst.

As the curtain parts on the second of our senior plays, the long suppressed odors of age and mystery permeate our auditorium, creating a predominant air of eccentric antiquity. In a matter of moments, the audience finds itself cringing within the forboding confines of the House of Greed.

The plot evolves about the wealthy Letitia Roberts (Mary Sue Strine), her indominatable control on the lives of her associates and her abrupt but timely death. When investigation disclosed the fact that murder had been committed, suspicion fell on the heads of all those who had been the victims of the vindictive spinster's animosity.

Mamie (Marcia Wagner) the spirited domestic servant; her detective fiance, Brooks (Mike Hoffman, and Jerry McArthur (Larry Watson), together with Cedric (Mike Bell), Letitia's nephew; Gwenda Lee (Connie Saum), Cedric's theatrical fiancee, and Carlotta (Pat Hinton), Letitia's estranged sister, combine their talents to complete this tale of suspense-filled drama.

Gene (Michael Gangloff) threatens "Aunt Miranda," disguised as Sheila Kraft, to the amusement of Josephine Alfano, Tom Graham, Mary Jo Helfrich, Henry Smyser, Mary Guyer, and Madeline Landis.

AUNT MIRANDA'S WILL

Aunt Miranda thought she knew what she was doing when she made a will leaving her money to her grand-niece, Jean Elwood. What she didn't know was that Jean was really Gene! It so happens that Aunt Miranda's pet peeve is men. Luckily, Gene discovers this before Aunt Miranda's visit. He realizes, too, that the only way to secure funds for medical school is to disguise himself as Jean. In his attempt to foil his aunt, he never suspected the complications that were to arise when his girl-friend, Helen, poses as Miranda herself! Meanwhile, Auntie succumbs and becomes married, and thus opening her heart to the male Gene, she provides no financial hindrance to his medical career.

The unannounced visit of Inez sends the embarrassed Gene into hiding. Even Mrs. Elwood's composure is lost in the ridiculous situation.

Tom Graham's "wicked punch" sends Gene to the floor from where he'll have some fast explaining to make to Aunt Miranda!

Behind the scenes of our footlights

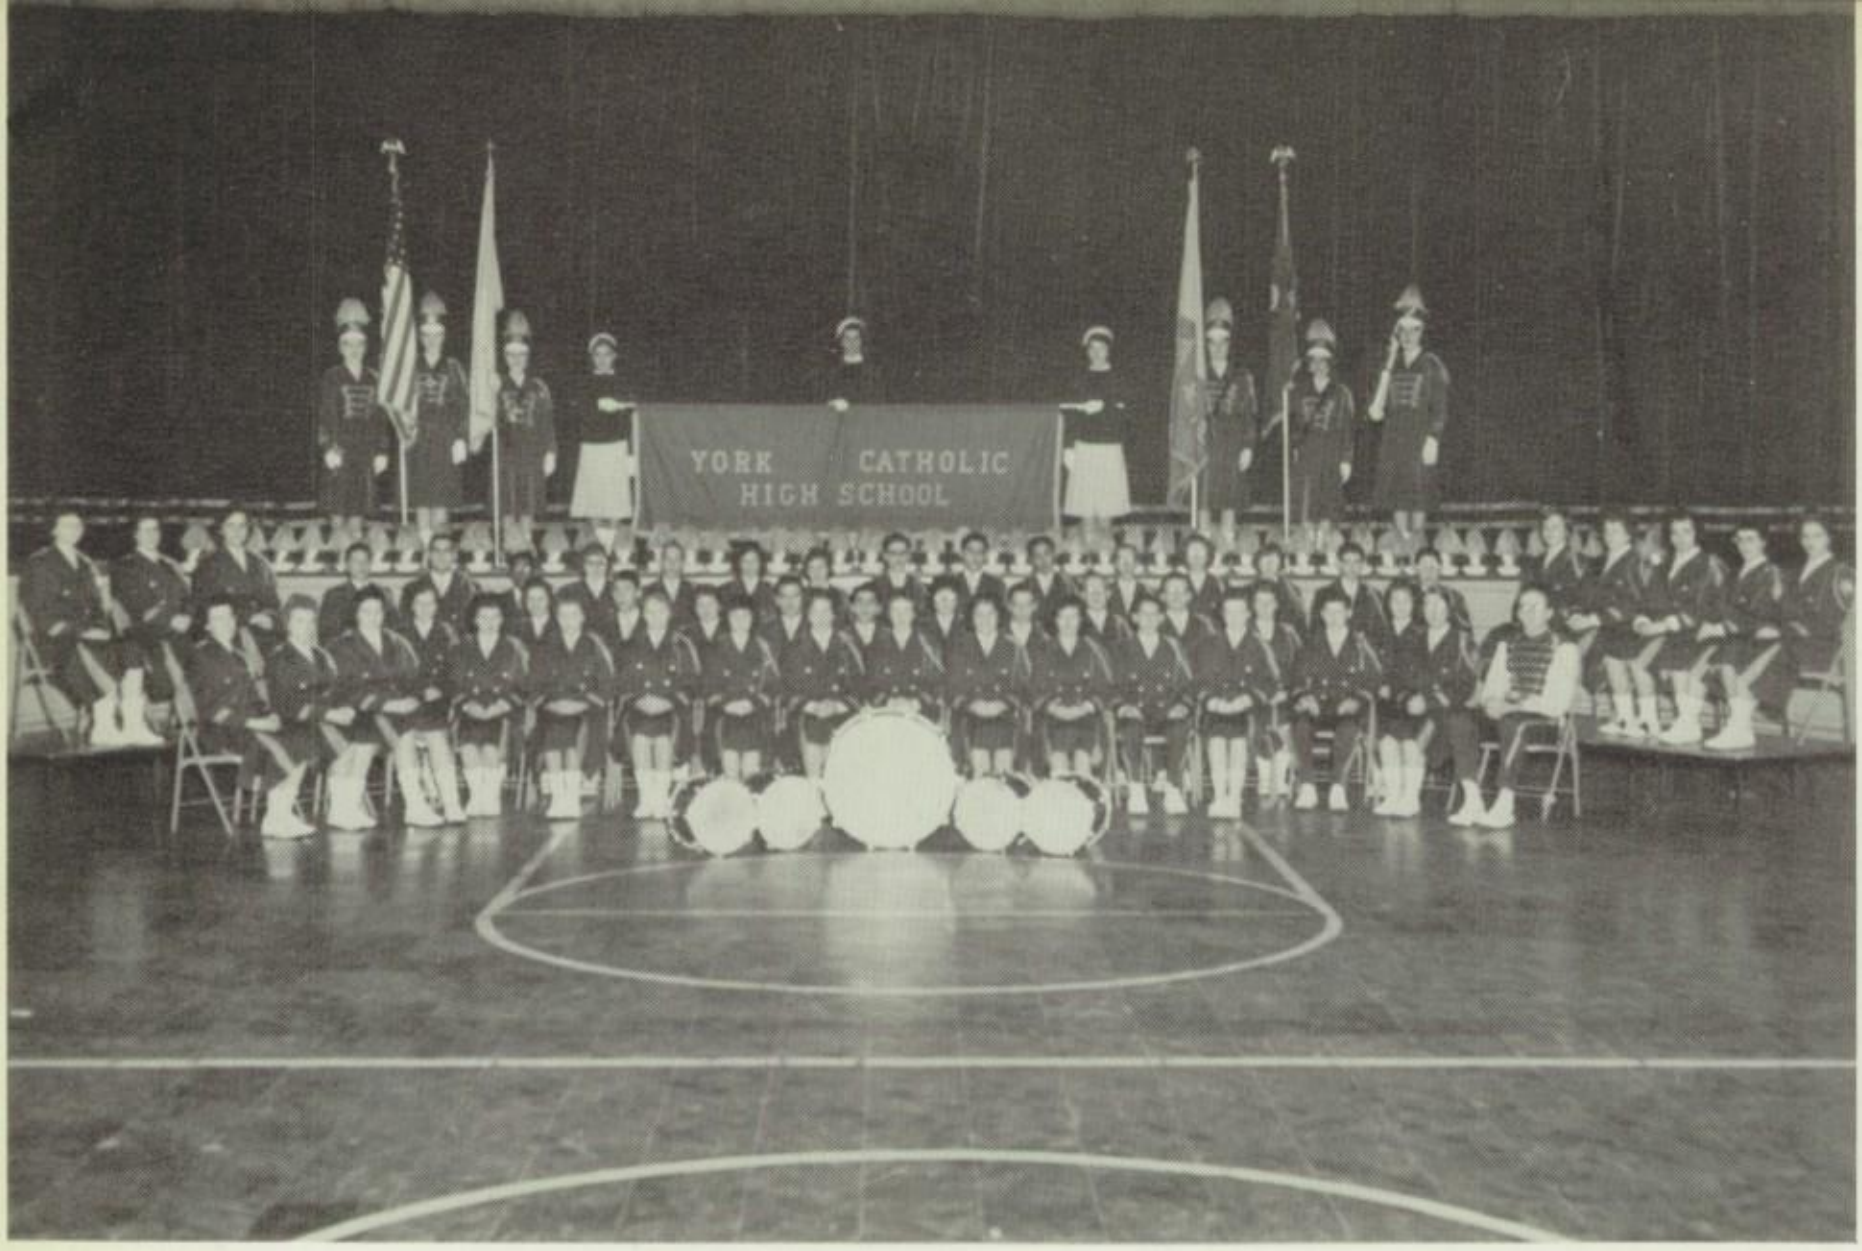
Without the aid of the "behind the scene" helpers the Senior Plays cannot become a reality, and, through their conscientious efforts, a success. Though they receive little glory their service is gratefully appreciated.

Mrs. Loffler, sacrificing her time and giving generously of her talent, assists in the direction of the Senior Play and Forensics.

Senior girls lend their skill in cast makeup and stand alert as efficient prompters. They are, seated: Patricia Gebhart, Sheila Einsig, Patricia Pacatte, Marie Zarnowski, Ferne Heindel; standing: Margaret Tassia, Diane Jennings, Dena Smith, Kathleen Shorb, and Beverly Peters.

Thomas Williams "terrorizes" the rest of the stage crew, John Knadig, Raymond Noll, Thomas Perkinson, Peter Klein, Francis Callahan, and Stanley Deller, as they aptly arrange the furniture for the next scene.



Our symphonic band has brought many honors to York Catholic this school year, 1958-59. Playing through football season's pep rallies and games, it provided the spirit that led our eleven to victories. We feel esteemed in its civic participation of Colonial Day, local parades, and in its lead in the Inaugural Parade at Harrisburg. Saxophone and viola soloists have honored these musicians by climbing to state honors in the Pennsylvania Forensics League.

Spring Musicale

The Dance Band, organized in September 1958, has practiced earnestly until they are a smooth, mellow-toned ensemble. The results of their regular practice were very apparent early in the season, when they provided the intermission music for our school's annual talent show.

Dance Band

As the various musical organizations united to pay tribute to Victor Herbert, the curtain opened to reveal a scene showing the beauty of Herbert's birthplace — Ireland. Virginia Alfano interpreted his "Naughty Marietta" in dance. Mary Guyer, Cynthia Keen, Madeline Landis, and Judith Orendorf played instrumental solos during the Finale.

Symphonic Band

The Finale of the 1959 Musicale is a tribute in music to Victor Herbert, whom we claim to be one of America's most loved writers. Born in Ireland and educated in Germany, he lived most of his life here in his beloved America.

Glee Club

With a song in their hearts and a sparkle in their eyes members of the Mixed Chorus enact a scene depicting a Sunday afternoon on the country side of Ireland. This enactment, with its colorful costumes and bright scenery, unites with a festive atmosphere to bring to a close York Catholic's gala Spring Musicale.

The Girls' Glee Club, a new organization at York Catholic, invites all Freshman girls as new members. The chorus consists of Freshman and Sophomore girls.

Reverend Vincent Smith of Harrisburg was Guest Conductor of all vocal groups for the Musicale.

With a song in their hearts

The Choir of York Catholic High School is a selected group. Only boys and girls who had been members of the choruses for two years are invited to audition for it. They are calld on for many occasions. Probably Christmas time is their most demanding time. The Choir takes part in the Music Festival sponsored by Catholic University in April each year.

Orchestra performs to . . .

another festive season

Mr. Roman Shuman, a familiar figure in our school's halls for many years, conducted the Band and Orchestra numbers for the 1959 Annual Spring Musicale.

York Catholic is proud of its orchestra and each year they are nearing their goal of having a balanced symphonic group. The Orchestra plays for assemblies and other school events. Most of the Orchestra members are music major students, the other members have orchestra as an after school activity.

Jane Lonsdorf, Mary Guyer, Cynthia Keen, Mary Topper, Judith Orendorff, Margaret Beauharnois, Mary Jo Helfrich—four-year instrumentalists, have a last "get together" at the annual Musicale.

Student Directors who did such a wonderful job all year are: Mary Guyer, Student Director of the Band; Cynthia Keen, Student Director of the Orchestra; Michael Gangloff, Student Director of the Glee Clubs.

Peter Mangan, Carl Lanius, Thomas Felty, John MacKinder, Robert Bastress, and Frank Borsellino competed for the York Optimist Club Award. Screening left Peter Mangan and Thomas Felty to represent Y.C.H.S. in state eliminations. Carl Lanius was named alternate speaker.

We voice our opinions

The pleasant smiles of Jane Lonsdorf, Patricia Pacatte, Thomas Graham, Michael Gangloff, Shirley Roth, and Sarah tell the good news! The Catholic War Veterans and Hire the Handicapped Committees have chosen them as winners in their respective essay contests.

in the art of public speaking

"The manner of your speaking is full as important as the matter." — This typifies the spirit of York Catholic's oratorical endeavors. Realizing society's impending demand for capable men and women, not only well versed in their respective fields, but whose qualifications include a convincing method of self-expression; our school has, as in previous years, whole heartedly encouraged youthful aspirants in the art of Public Speaking. Participation in the Harrisburg and Pennsylvania Forensics, the Monsignor Wachter Tournament, and the Optimist Oratorical Contest have resulted in both diocesan and state recognition. Proudly do we salute both students and faculty engaged in this most worthy activity!

These active participants in Reading and Pennsylvania Forensic Clubs gain experience and style from Patrick Clark's witty interpretation of Will Roger's humorous dialogue.

Interested in the art of public speaking these hopefuls of the Harrisburg and Pennsylvania Forensics are ever ready for instruction and criticism. They strive to improve their style, diction and gestures by constructive opinions of each other's work. Shown here, absorbed in the intrigue of Mary Sue Strine's poetic tale of "Zingarella" are Patrick Clark, Bernard Topper, Richard Rutter, Sarah Snyder, Margaret Beck, Michael Gangloff, Vincent Krepps, Joan Wagman, Marcia Wagner, and Barbara Beck.

While searching for unique layouts, headings, and copy, the editorial staff stops to give ideas to artist, Constance Saum, that she can work into original illustrations. Awaiting inspiration are: Constance Saum, Marcia Ringlein, Mary Sue Strine, Michael Bell, Margaret Beck, Thomas Graham, Cynthia Keen, Mary Buckley, and Jane Lonsdorf.

"LOOKING BACK" has a familiar ring, when we realize the hours spent in looking back over one's yearbook. We feel a justifiable pride in our ROSA MYSTICA, for from its earliest issues it has succeeded in portraying a true scholastic picture by combining literary talent, originality, and school activity. The yearbook was first organized when the high school was located at St. Mary's under the direction of the Sisters of St. Francis. When we moved to the King Street high school the Sisters of St. Joseph took over its publication. The ROSA MYSTICA has held membership and honors in the National Scholastic Press Association, the Columbia Press, and the Pennsylvania Press. It has consistently merited the rating "All Catholic" by the Catholic School Press.

Our two smiling editors, Michael Gangloff and Sarah Snyder, optimistically discuss the lay-out for nineteen fifty-nine Rosa Mystica.

Keen interest is shown in the sincere fashion in which the Business Managers go about their task of verifying and typing the yearbook contract slips. Participating in this phase of the work are Francis Callahan, Thelma Gutt, Mary Jo Helfrich, Patricia Gebhart, Harriet Flinchbaugh, Deanna Ridgeley, and Elizabeth Roth.

Rosa Mystica staff strives for perfection

Rosa Mystica typists, Linda Loks, Rosalia Butera and Gloria Moon are busy at work to complete the copy for printer's deadline. Virginia Alfano checks files for faculty photographs and final sketches for end pages.

During a serious contemplation over an angle for the sports lay-out of the Rosa Mystica, our sports writers were surprised by the entrance of the photographer and cheerfully took a break from their work to give evidence to his query, "Everyone happy?" Seated: Pret Shellenberger, Gary Markle. Standing: Mike Schneider and Pat Clark.

Preparing THE SPECTATOR for mailing are the Business Managers: Elaine List, Ferne Heindel, Anne Weikle, Joanne Weikle, Betty Ann McLaughlin, Rena Dunlap.

Challenging Deadlines

Entire staff gets together to evaluate the year's work. They are: Thomas Tassia, Richard Rutter, Barbara Beck, Joan Wagaman, Ernest MacKowell, and Yvonne MacDonald.

Mary Lydon points out to the "nosey newsers", Diane Perinotti, Kathleen Kirby, Caroline Deardorff and Nancy Strausbaugh, a slogan which they should all put to use.

Sports editors Thomas Laffey, Michael Easton, and Michael Hopkinson try to give shutterbug John Miliziano some slants on action shots.

Editor Ernest McDowell chats with feature writers Suzanne Reese, Jeanne Bochingham and Pauletta Helfrich on finding interesting and humorous ideas in the "Editor."

Looking Back . . .

York Catholic activities actually begin before the school doors open for the semester. Early August, Seniors start to feel and enjoy the limelight. The football season opens, soon to be followed by the basketball season in which Seniors, figuring prominently, set the pattern for underclassmen. Golf and the friendly rivalry of intramural basketball is acclaimed with enthusiasm.

Those Seniors less athletically inclined enter wholeheartedly into the fine arts. Every Senior cherishes being on the yearbook staff, or on the school paper. Enthusiastic Seniors campaign and elect to office the Student Council in early fall. Science and language clubs are formed and joined by eager Seniors. In November, dramatics bring Seniors to vie for the few parts; and students from sections 1-A and 2-A always feel that they must win the annual Talent Show. Music fills the air with the organizing of the orchestra and band. Ears are alert for those who feel that they have a voice to join the A Cappella Choir and Glee Club. December approaching, the Advent Wreath ceremonies and the beautiful Christmas pageant are featured, naturally, with Seniors represented. January sees a letdown in activities because of Mid-term exams, but the Spring ushers in more Senior activties. Retreat is first, followed by awards to imaginative and artistic poster winners. The Spring Musicale, competitive music, and oratorical forensics see many Seniors among the winners.

Finally, the granddaddy of all the activities, The Prom! This social affair is climaxed by the stately ceremonies of our May Procession and graduation exercises, which close the doors, and our year as 1959 Seniors of the King Street York Catholic High School.

Annie (honey)

My very best friend! Although sometimes, you get the best of me. I'm glad we came to our senses about our difficulties in 10th year - Ha-Ha Remember the phone calls we made!? Don't forget new year's eve. Be good and I hope you don't have to repeat Senior year! If you get a chance this summer and you're not too busy——

(sitting!)

"CALL!"

I'm usually not too busy! The swimming pools are open in the summer. The movies are also open. Come over sometime! We do live in a house. You won't catch cold. Our windows & blinds are always closed. Please be patient with Charlie over the summer!

Love,

Cookie
